LEGAL VITALITY OF THE EMMA MINE.

A Six Months Prisoner's Objection to a Seven Months Incarceration.

Equally jovial and heart warming, but less peaceful and pleasant in its ending than Longfellow's "Hang-ing of the Crane" was Fred Miller's swinging of the For twenty and six years, boy and man, Fred had worked in the same establishment in Gold street, in this city. On Sunday, the 6th of last April, having a job to finish, he went to his shop for that purpose, and subsequently crossed the way to refresh himself in the dining saloon of Herman Lager. There, he says, though a patron of Herman and his brother for twenty years or thereabout, he vas violently assaulted, beaten, bruised and blackened and thrust out of doors. Bright and early on the llowing morning he appeared in the office of Charles S. Spencer, who commenced a suit against the al-leged principal in the assault, Herman Lager, to reer $2,000 damages. This suit came to trial yesterday in the Marine Court before Judge Sheridan ad a jury. The plaintiff told his story to the effect that the only cause for the alleged assault was that he had noticed paint on the neck of the defendant's other, and in jest remarked that if he died he would not go to his funeral. Then followed the ersion of the defendant and his triends to the effect version of the defendant and his triends to the effect that the plaintiff was more than two hours in the saloon intoxicated and had become so generally bolisterous and insulting to the guests that he had to be put out, and that he had to be put out, and that he brother of the defendant testified to the boist-orous conduct of the plaintiff. Witness had, he said, a small dog with him which plaintiff "serted had been stolen from under the bed of "Peddy the Blacksmith:" and plaintiff offered to be defended had been stolen from under the bed of "Peddy the Blacksmith:" and plaintiff offered to be defines for the party that the dog wor!" follow him. The bet was made, and the deg was following the plaintiff when he was whistled back by the barkeeper. This seemed to operate on Miller's temper as the saw file did on Courtney's boats, and the temper that remained was no good. There was near by a cat belonging to the defendant, whereby hung a tail. The latter Miller serized and swinging the appendage in the air brought it down with a thud on the floor. The cat, the witness said, gave one almost insudbile squesk, in which he thought its ninth like had surely gone out, and he reproached Miller for his cruelty to a dumb animal. The witness then told ais brother that he could not remain if Miller remained, and the end was that Miller was "gently" put out. Not so, said Miller, on the contrary there was no cat in the case, and his story was as he had previously told it. Counsel for defendant claimed that the evidence on his side was overwhelming, while counsel for plaintiff argued that it was too overwhelming to be true. The jury seemed to think that the payment of six cents to the plaintiff would settle the whole matter and declared in his favor to that amount. hat the plaintiff was more than two hours in the

THE EMMA MINE LITIGATION. The old Emma Silver Mine litigation, which ran profitable course to the lawyers engaged in it, but with corresponding loss to the litigants themselves nd wearisomeness to the courts and juries, has en revived in the United States District Court before Judge Choate, sitting in circuit. The suit of the Emma Silver Mining Company (limited), of Lonon, against the Emma Silver Mining Company, of Mew York, Trenor W. Park, H. H. Baxtor, William M. Stewart and Charles G. Lincoln, came up on a motion by the defendants yesterday for leave to file separate pleas. As presented by the brief and arguments of counsel the case is in all respects the same as has heretofore occupied the courts under nearly the same title. The same counsel are also engaged on either side, Hon. E. W. Stoughton, ex-Minister to Russia, representing the plaintiffs and Megsrs. John E. Burrill and Edward J. Phelps, of Vermont, representing the defendants. The plaintiffs have filed a bill to set aside a "transaction of sale" between the plaintiffs and defendants. To this the defendants piesd in bar a judgment in an action in this court which the plaintiffs brought against Park and Baxter, the original owners of the Emma Silver Mine, and which judgment was in favor of the later. The suit involves all the points raised and disposed of on the previous trials of the case, and it is upon the judgment of the court thereon the defendants now rely in their opposition to the relief asked for by the plaintiffs. The argument on the motion occupied the entire day in the court.

Mr. Burrill opened on behalt of the motion, and was followed by Mr. Stoughton. Mr. Phelps concinding late in the afternoon. Judge Choate took the papers and reserved his decision. New York, Trenor W. Park, H. H. Baxter, William

TOO MUCH OF A GOOD THING. A novel question as to the right to detain a prisner for a longer period than that prescribed in the warrant of commitment was raised before Judge Donohue yesterday in Supreme Court, Chambers, by mate of the Penitentiary on Blackwell's Island. Brown was sentenced to the Penitentiary for six months, and during his imprisonment he sought his release by means of habeas corpus, buring the argument on this writ the prisoner was brought from the Penitentiary and lodged in the Tombs for nearly a month before the case was decided. On being remanded to his former quarters Warden Fox detained him to fail the unexpired month which he had not served in the Penitentiary. In arguing to continue this imprisonment Assistant District Attorney Leavy contended that the procedure was perfectly consistent, and quoted the Stokes case, in which the Court so held. Mr. Hummel, on the contrary, urged that the Stokes case was not analogous, as in that proceeding it was claimed that the time Stokes had spent in the Tombs before and not after the sentence was pronounced should be deducted. In the present case the commitment directed the warden to keep Brown for six months from April 18, 1879. The six months townhated last Saturday, and further detention, he claimed, was lilegal. Judge Donohue intimated that, inasmuch as there had been no escape from imprisonment or any shirking therefrom, he considered the point of the prisoner's counsel was well taken, but gave Assistant District Attorney Leary antil to-morrow to submit a brief in support of the views of the prosecution. Meantime he would not recommit Brown to the Penitentiary, but remand hum to the Tombs. Brown was sentenced to the Penitentiary for six

PREPARED FOR BUSINESS.

The trial of Frank Bennett, charged in the United States Circuit Court with having a large amount of counterfeit notes in his possession, was begun yes-terday before Judge Benedict and a jury. Bennett was arrested on the afternoon of September 27 by was arrested on the afternoon of September 27 by Officer Drummond and assistants of the Secret Service Office, and when searched $1,675 in counterreit notes on the National State Bank of Troy, N. Y., were found in his possession. This was the first day of the appearance of this counterfeit, and the officers claim that Bennett was supplying dealers in the "queer" with it. The circumstances attending the arrest and finding of the money were given in evidence by the officers, who were subjected to a long cross-examination by exJudge A. J. Dittenhoeter, who appeared for the defence. Judge Dittenhoeter will seek to establish that a "job" was "put up" by the secret service officers to secure the arrest of the prisoner, and that he had no knowledge of the work he was called upon to do. Assistant District Attorney Tenney appeared for the prosecution. The trial will probably be concluded to-day.

QUESTION OF REVENUE DUTIES. After calling the long calendar in the United States Circuit Court yesterday morning, before Judge Shipman, a jury was called in the case of William Duden & Co. against Collector Arthur. The action is rought to recover an alleged excess of duties paid brought to recover an alleged excess of duties paid on various importations of yak lace in the years 1872 and 1873, the duties being assessed on dress trimmings instead, as calined by the plaintiffs, as manufactures of worsted. The plaintiffs claim that the article is not specially known in commerce as dress trimmings, and therefore is only liable to duty as a manufactured worsted. The case involves a number of suits pending to determine the same question. It was tried about a year ago, but the jury failed to agree upon a verdict. Messrs. Stanley, Brown & Clarke and Isaac Phillips appear for the plaintiffs, and United States Attorneys Woodford and Herrick for the Collector. The case is still on trial.

SUMMARY OF LAW CASES A discharge in bankruptcy was granted yesterday in the United States District Court by Judge Choste

An indictment has been found by the Grand Jury against Pietro Balbo for murder in the first degree. It is alleged, as will be remembered, that the accused cut his wile's throat at No. 14 Rose street on the morning of the 13th of September last. He was arrested in West Virginia, having fled the city. Michael Hall, who gave his occupation as that of a fireman in the employ of the Manhattan Gas Coma fireman in the employ of the Manhavan Gas Com-pany, was arraighed in the Court of General Sessions yesterday charged with having picked the pocket of Thomas Rierdan, of No. 557 Greenwich street. The third resaped, but was subsequently arrested. In the Court of General Sessions yesterday the prisoner pleaded guilty to larceny from the person and Judge Gildersleeve sent him to the Penitentiary for a year. Edward Ryan and Dennis Hickey were convicted yesterday in the United States Circuit Court before Judge Benedict, upon an indictment charging them with passing counterfeit trade dollars and were remanded for sentence. They belonged to the gang arrested by the police in Second avenue some time ago, one of whom pleaded guilty on the opening day of court.

arrested by the police in Second avenue some time ago, one of whom pleaded guilty on the opening day of court.

Ernest Landener and Charles Hilfrich opened a cigar and tobacco manufacturing establishment Monday morning on Eighth avenue between Sixtyninth and Seventieth streets, but had hardly begun operations when the revenue officers interfered and arrested them. The new firm had failed to file the bonds required by the revenue law, rendering themselves liable to criminal arrest. The prisoners were yesterday brought before United States Commissioner Shields, and Landener was held in $1.000 bail and Hilfrich in $500 for examination.

Michaelo Finello, a porter, was arraigned in the Court of General Sessions, charged with felonious assault. On the night of the 13th of July last the accused was assaulted by three men at No 180 Elizabeth street, where he lived. While endeavoring to get away he drew a knife and cut Margaret Fleming slightly in the side. He pleaded guilty to assault and battery, and Judge Cowing sentenced him to sixty days in the Penitentiary. Subsequently, on motion of counsel, the Court, in view of the mitigating circumstances of the case, discharged him on payment of $100 fine.

office of Mr. Rogers at No. 4 New Chambers street. Yesterday afternoon the lawyer in question, Mr. Van Hoesen, who is a clerk for Mr. Rogers, appeared, before Mayor Cooper and corroborated Colonel Prati's story. He said he had received the $5 from the Colonel on the 17th of June last. In regard to this matter the following communication from Superintendent Dooley was laid before the Mayor before Mr. Van Hoesen called upon him:—

THE NEW YORK CATHOLIC PROTECTORY:

NEW YORK, CATHOLIC PROTECTORY:

Hon. EDWARD COOPKE, Mayor of the City of New York:—

DEAR SHE-Mr. Regers, or No. 4 New Chambers street, informs me that he has no record of the payment of So by Mr. Prati as a retainer in the case of the boy Kancorint; that he has no recollection of the payment of such sum, nor of any such case. While I think this disposes of the question of fact, I venture to submit one or two inconsistencies in Mr. Prati's speech of yesterday to your Honor's notice. He says when the woman catiod for advice he had no time to talk to her, but that he would enjoy a lawyer. She gave him Stand he gave it to the lawyer the same day. Mr. Rogers recollects nothing about the case, the retainer or its return.

Your Honor will remark that the so-called receipt is signed by Mr. Van Hovenberg, who is Mr. Rogers' cierk, and that it is dated October? DANGEROUS SKYROCKETS.

Coroner Simms, of Brooklyn, held an inquest yes terday in the case of Mrs. Margaret Jennings, of No. 305 Hudson avenue, that city, who was killed by 506 Hudson avenue, that city, who was killed by being struck by a skyrocket set off while a chowder party was passing through the street. The jury rendered a vordict to the effect that her death was the result of an accident, and recommended that hereatter the city authorities refuse to grant permis-sion to discharge sky rockets, Roman candies and other dangerous combustibles in the streets and crowded thoroughfares of the city.

CALIFORNIA'S FIRST GOLD MINE,

From the El Dorado Republican. oma, as a mining district, commands more than ordinary attention. The township occupies both banks of the South Fork of the American River for a mile or more, extending up and along the slopes of the gentle acclivities of the surrounding nills. They seem, when viewed from various standpoints, to form a grand natural amphitheatre, and one must accord a landscape beauty, such, perhaps, as cannot be found elsewhere in the State, serving as a fit accompaniment to the locality, rendered historic by the discovery of gold. Had such a fact marked any locality in Europe a monument would have been erected to give in all future time the exact knowledge of the spot. Yet the historic Sutier mill has been entirely removed, and even among the "oldest inhabitants" of Coloma doubts are entertained as to the exact location. Marshall, the recognized discoverer of the precious metal, yet living, resides on the edge of the township, and is smong the poorest of the few remaining 40ers, dependent upon his daily labor for the absolute material of life sustenance. slopes of the gentle acclivities of the surrounding

AN OPEN STOCK BOARD.

A NEW ENTERPRISE IN THE OLD POST OFFICE BUILDING - WHAT ITS FOUNDERS SAY OF IT The New York Stock Exchange in the early days of its existence was a very close corporation and the business transacted there only reached the public through the printed lists of sales. Baize doors and sentries stood between the public and what was going on within its portals. This secret method of soon became so objectionable that a project to establish an open exchange was set on foot. It was laughed at at first by the members of the regula exchange and its headquarters on Exchange place, in a basement formerly occupied by the Lackawanna Coal Board, was christened the "Coal Hole." But it outlived redicule and grew until it commanded recognition from the regulars. The latter manded recognition root the regulars. The same were at first restricted from business dealings with members of the open board, and ignored their doings entirely. The "Coal Hole" nevertheless prospered, and the regulars found it judicious to recognize the new exchange by alternating with it during the day the hours for calling the lists. This was during the days of inflation, when speculation was active, and both exchanges grew rich. The open board deserted its quarters in the "Coal Hole," or Exchange place, and took up a position on Broad street, within a door or two of its rival. The two amalgamated soon after, the members of the open board entering the New York Stock Exchange on an equal footing with its old members, and the funds of both concerns becoming a common treasury.

THE LATEST DEPARTURE.

THE GRAND JURY TO HEAR THE CASE TO-MOR-ROW-A TALK WITH MR. SMITH'S COUNSEL.

While the Grand Jury were in session yesterday Mr. Samuel Whitchurch, secr tary of the Tax-payers' Association, at No. 340 Third avenue, presented himself and made a statement in relation to the clubbing of Charles Smith by Captain Williams and Officer Fleming. The jury finally decided to hear the case to-morrow. Subpenas were accord-ingly issued for Mr. Smith and several witnesses. The hearing will doubtless be interesting, the Dis-trict Attorney having stated that every facility would be given for a full hearing of the details. In pre-vious instances where Captaing Williams was charged and Officer Fleming. The jury finally decided to trict Attorney having stated that every facility would be given for a full hearing of the details. In previous instances where Captain Williams was charged with brutality in the use of his club he, as defendant, and his witnesses, were permitted to testify before the Grand Jury, a course rarely adopted in ordinary cases, the method generally adopted being to allow only the complainant's side to be heard, when, if the evidence seems sufficient, an indictment is found. Commissioner Star, foreman of the Grand Jury, has already stated that if, after a careful examination of the testimony, a good prima facie case is made out, the parties charged will be indicted. It seems likely that the matter will be adjudicated upon by the jury this week.

The papers containing Mr. Whitchurch's charges were not served yesterday. The Police Commissioners have discussed the method of trying the cases, and have, it is said, decided to take them up separately. Captain Williams' charge against Officer Fleming will, it is believed, be tried to-day, and Mr. Whitchurch's complaint against Captain Williams a week later.

Ex_Judge Morris, of Mr. Smith's counsel, said it iams a week later.
Ex-Judge Morris, of Mr. Smith's counsel, said it

Ex-Judge Morris, of Mr. Smith's counsel, said it was his intention to have called upon District Attorney Phelps yeaterday, for the purpose of urging the criminal prosecution of Captain Williams and Policeman Floming for the assault, but he was prevented from doing so by a case in court which took up his time. He intended, however, to carry out his intention. "We wound not be satisfied," said the ex-Judge, "with the mere dismissal of Captain Williams from the police force. He should be criminally prosecuted and punished for the assault upon an inoffensive citizen. Mr. Smith is entitled to reparation for the injuries he sustained, and the public are entitled to vindication for the outrage committed." Mr. Morris said he would also press the civil suit begun on Saturday last to recover damages in the sum of $10,000, and would endeavor to have the trial advanced on the calendar of the court.

GOOD COUNSEL NEEDED.

A gentleman has written to this office, suggesting that subscriptions be made to defray the expenses of "good legal talent," to prosecute Mr. Whit-church's charge against Captain Williams. To the proposed fund he contributes $1.

MRS. MOORE'S PURCHASES.

Mayor Cooper remained in his office at the City Hall until a late hour last evening listening to the developments in the matter of the charges made by Mrs. Mary Moore against Albert Kraemer, the al-Mrs. Mary Moore against Albert Kraemer, the alleged proprietor of a mock auction establishment. The proceedings yesterday were opened by a long legal discussion between the opposing counsel. Messrs. Halsoy and Cochran, for Kraemer, contended that the complaint of Mrs. Moore should have been made under the law of 1853 instead of under the statute of 1871. The lawyers claimed that in case the proceedings were brought under the act of 1871 the Mayor had absolutely no jurisdiction whatever in the premises. By the terms of the law in question the act alleged to have been committed by Kraemer was a misdemeanor, and, of course, His Honor could have no jurisdiction over such an effence. After hearing the points of Mr. White, Mrs. Moore's counsel, in opposition, the Mayor decided that he thought the law of 1853 conferred sufficient power upon him to try the questions at issue, and he would therefore proceed.

Mrs. Moore was then called and examined at great length. She reiterated heft charges against Kraemer, and gave a complete history of all her dealings with him. She said the defendant sold her furniture and other goods, for which he charges over $5,000. What she bought had not proved to be what they had been represented to be. She says that she has lost nearly all her money through her dealings with Kraemer. leged proprietor of a mock auction establishment.

The case was adjourned for further hearing.

REMINISCENCES OF THE RING. SALE OF ALLEGED SECURITIES OF "LOSS"

TWEED, HARRY GENET AND OTHER FINAN-CIERS-SMALL BIDS BY LOCAL POLITICIANS. Around one of the auctioneers' stands at the Real Estate Exchange yesterday there was a group of well known politicians. The auctioneer, Mr. Brown, stood on the rostrum with a small printed slip in his fingers, making vain efforts to read its contents without smiling. The broad laugh on the upturned faces in front of him did not aid him in his dilemma, but after several ineffectual efforts he successed in stating that he was about to offer for sale some assets of Mr. Charles Devlin, a bankrupt, at the direction of the assignee, Mr. John H. Platt. Mr. Devlin, it will be remembered, is a contractor and was 'Tweed's bondsman and lifelong friend. He stood with pencil and slip in hand by the side of his lawyer, Mr. Newcombe, the partner of ex-Judge Cardozo. Near him was Mr. Timethy Donovan, and in the immediate vicinity were several Aldermen, and ex-Aldermen, ex-Mayor Smith Ely and a group of Israelites. On the first lot, which consisted of eighty shares of the Fulton Railroad Company, there was no bid, and so the auchoneer added one share of Staten Island Railroad stock, with no other result than to be greeted by the laughter of the spectators. He then added one note of Kiralfy Brothers for $3,052, dated June 4, 1877, for ninety days, and two notes of $500 each, dated November 14, 1876, and November 14, 1877. These succeeded in inducing bids that amounted to $4, and were knocked down to Mr. Newcombe. A similar course was adopted with the next three lots, which were finally so.d to Mr. Newcombe for $1. These consisted of three notes of Isaliah Rynders, for $300 and $200 and $300, respectively, dated September 15, 1876, January S, 1877, March 13, 1877, tor sixty days each; one note, Christopher Keyes, for $975, dated December 8, 1873, for three months; two notes of William E. Scoville, for $303 50 and $333 74, respectively, dated May 25, 1875. for two and three months. This was followed by the offer of the sale of a claim against the city of New York for $189,000, for contract work in grading sfreets from 1855 to 1859, now in itigation. This was bought by Mr. Newcombe for $1, amid many "chaffing" remarks as to the credit of the city. Ex-Mayor Ely bought the note of Colonel Jim Bagley of $7,262 for $9. Notes of Pike & Co. for $13,000, Charlotte McGee for $1,207 and Hetty Huntington for $7,000 went for $1.00 Anote of Charles D. Bilish for $2,505, account of Bagley & but after several ineffectual efforts he succeeded in stating that he was about to offer for sale some assets

THE FARMERS' CLUB. At the meeting of the Farmers' Club, yesterday

Mr. J. H. Real spoke on the subject of forming an American agricultural society similar to that now existing in England. He stated that a meeting an American agricultural society similar to that now existing in England. He stated that a meeting would be held this week to consider the subject. Mr. R. J. Dodge, the Vice President, said that many farmers had formed the opinion that it is desirable to establish a society, in which every section of the country shall be represented, to advance American agriculture by practical methods. He moved that a committee of five be appointed to consider the best method of furthering the scheme. Mr. L. S. Harding said that American farmers did not have the influence they should have. All that was needed was to form a nucleus around which the agriculturists of the country could gather. He moved that the club constitutiviself a Committee of the Whole instead of five. Phis motion was carried, Mr. Dodge read a brief paper on the subject of "Mik." Within a bowl of milk, he said, he hidden all the elements of which our bodies are composed. The eye fisoif, with all its wonders, is but humanized, crystallized milk. Dr. Heath thought it very strange that a chid should be crystallized milk, if that was so he could not see why a child living on cow's milk should not be crystallized in the form of a calf. Milk, especially Jersey milk, was very rich, and ought to be diluted with water. Children fed on condensed milk had a sickly complexion and were not strong. They resulty succumbed to measies and other diseases.

pneumonia were presented by Mr. Dodge and passed Ananimously:—

Resolved. That this Club approves of the action of the state in the matter of the "pleare-pneumonia contagiosa," and recommend that the good work be not allowed to sease for the want of the necessary money to continue it.

Resolved. That the city authorities of New York be urged of give careful attention to the sanitary condition of the action states within their purishication, and that a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to the State and city authorities.

Dr. J. H. Platt made some strong remarks on the stables in which cattle are kept within the city limits. He described their condition as being far from perfect.

BROOKLYN BUILDING STATISTICS.

Secretary Roche, of the Brooklyn Board of Asses sors, has made a detailed statement in which he shows that the total number of buildings crected shows that the total number of buildings crected in that city from May 31, 1878, to May 31, 1879, was 1,125. The assessed value per building was $2,629, making a total assessed value of $2,978,000. The total number of buildings crected since 1854 was 26,104, upon which there was an assessed value of $60,761,800. The assessed value of the land is not included in the estimates.
